TIP: Review the education and training rule language (rule 61G20-6.002 F.A.C.) for specific requirements. It can be found at floridabuilding.org or in the Florida Administrative Code (through www.leg.state.fl.us or www.flrules.org).

TIP: Keep your provider/accreditor contact information current on the BCIS so you will be sure to receive e-mails related to your application.

TIP: Make sure to record and be able to retrieve your BCIS logon and password information. If a password is lost, it will take a minimum of 24 hours for re-issuance.

TIP: Make sure more than one person in your office has your BCIS logon, password, and contact information.

TIP: Your FBC course number will be different from any licensure board course number. Your FBC course number will be three digits plus an extension denoting the version of your course (example: 123.1 is a course that has been revised once).

TIP: For updating or revising a course, if you choose the course category of "self-affirmed, no change," that means that no content in the course has changed. This truly means no change in the course materials. Please carefully review the course and make sure no change is needed.

TIP: For updating or revising a course with one change, select the course category of "self-affirmed, one change" and fully describe the change. This type of revision usually applies when there has been a change in code reference or law or rule citation. This truly means just one change, but it can apply in multiple locations in the course (example: section 12(a) changes to section 12(b) in five places in the course materials).

TIP: Submission of a new or revised course application within one or two days of the course submittal deadline is not likely to be successful because the course must be ACCREDITED (not just submitted) by the course submittal deadline.

TIP: Course deadline submittal dates are published in each of the FBC Education POC agendas and can be found at floridabuilding.org.

TIP: Make sure you save your work in progress.

TIP: If you are asked to make a change by an accreditor, make sure you make the change (such as upload a revised document) before you press the "submit" button.

TIP: If you have any difficulties with the accreditation process or working within the BCIS, please contact the education administrator at mrcconsulting@earthlink.net.

TIP: You should receive an email from the BCIS each time action is taken on your course. If you have questions regarding the status of your course, check your Inbox.

TIP: After your course has been accredited, you will receive an e-mail from the BCIS (that is why it is so important your e-mail address is current). If you do not receive an e-mail, you can check your Inbox. The status should be "pending FBC approval".

TIP: Any course accredited after the deadline will be included on the agenda for review at the next scheduled FBC Education POC meeting.

By checking you affirm that you have read the tips above.

TIP: All materials uploaded will be reviewed by the accreditor, the education administrator, and the Florida Building Commission.

TIP: It is important to ensure that any materials or documents (such as a quiz, test, exercise, or workbook, including answers to any questions or exercises) referenced in your course, syllabus, course application, or any other materials are uploaded and included with your application. Failure to do this may cause a denial or delay of approval (required by rule 61G20-6.002 F.A.C.).

TIP: If an incorrect example of a method or construction is depicted in the materials for illustration or discussion, then the fact that it is incorrect must be noted or explained on the slide or specific item or document. The accreditor and Florida Building Commission must be able to understand the context and purpose for inclusion of incorrect information or illustration.

1. The course title and number, with the word "Advanced" in the title and "Internet" if appropriate.
2. Number of hours of credit (e.g., 1 hour, 2 hours, etc.)
3. Name, address, telephone number, and email address of the provider
4. Short course description completely describing what the particular course is designed to address
5. Course learning objectives
6. Code edition to which the course relates (can be in the course description)
7. Course references cited in the outline
8. Method of course evaluations

Everything cited in the course syllabus must be found or described in the remaining course materials and description.

TIP: The number of hours in the syllabus must match the number of hours in the course application and other materials.

This option allows the provider to submit revisions to an approved accredited course. The training provider must follow the instructions for submitting a course application. ALL revised materials must be included and must be consistent with the current version of the Florida Building Code. The training provider should ensure that all information (including course and material titles and course summary) is consistent with the revisions submitted. An application for course revision must be accredited, but only the portions revised are subject to accreditation. This option is available only for existing approved courses (not for courses submitted but not yet approved).

OK

TIP: Review the education and training rule language (rule 61G20-6.002 F.A.C.) for specific requirements. It can be found at floridabuilding.org or in the Florida Administrative Code (through www.leg.state.fl.us or www.flrules.org).

TIP: Keep your provider/accreditor contact information current on the BCIS so you will be sure to receive e-mails related to your application.

TIP: Make sure to record and be able to retrieve your BCIS logon and password information. If a password is lost, it will take a minimum of 24 hours for re-issuance.

TIP: Make sure more than one person in your office has your BCIS logon, password, and contact information.

TIP: Your FBC course number will be different from any licensure board course number. Your FBC course number will be three digits plus an extension denoting the version of your course (example: 123.1 is a course that has been revised once).

TIP: For updating or revising a course, if you choose the course category of "self-affirmed, no change," that means that no content in the course has changed. This truly means no change in the course materials. Please carefully review the course and make sure no change is needed.

This truly means just one change, but it can apply in multiple locations in the course (example: section 12(a) changes to section 12(b) in five places in the course materials).

TIP: Submission of a new or revised course application within one or two days of the course submittal deadline is not likely to be successful because the course must be ACCREDITED (not just submitted) by the course submittal deadline.

TIP: Course deadline submittal dates are published in each of the FBC Education POC agendas and can be found at floridabuilding.org.

TIP: Make sure you save your work in progress.

TIP: If you are asked to make a change by an accreditor, make sure you make the change (such as upload a revised document) before you press the "submit" button.

TIP: If you have any difficulties with the accreditation process or working within the BCIS, please contact the education administrator at mrccconsulting@earthlink.net.

TIP: You should receive an email from the BCIS each time action is taken on your course. If you have questions regarding the status of your course, check your Inbox.

TIP: After your course has been accredited, you will receive an e-mail from the BCIS (that is why it is so important your e-mail address is current). If you do not receive an e-mail, you can check your Inbox. The status should be "pending FBC approval".

TIP: Any course accredited after the deadline will be included on the agenda for review at the next scheduled FBC Education POC meeting.

TIP: The course must include the word "advanced" in the title (required by rule 61G20-6.002 F.A.C.).

TIP: If appropriate, the course must include the word "internet" in the title (required by rule 61G20-6.002 F.A.C.).

TIP: Include the exact and full name of your course for identification by those searching.

TIP: It is helpful to include the code edition year in the title.

TIP: Make sure that the course title in the BCIS matches the course title in the course materials.

TIP: Make sure that the code edition (e.g., 2010) is the same in the BCIS course description, the course syllabus, and the course materials.

TIP: All materials uploaded will be reviewed by the accreditor, the education administrator, and the Florida Building Commission.

TIP: It is important to ensure that any materials or documents (such as a quiz, test, exercise, or workbook, including answers to any questions or exercises) referenced in your course, syllabus, course application, or any other materials are uploaded and included with your application. Failure to do this may cause a denial or delay of approval (required by rule 61G20-6.002 F.A.C.).

TIP: If an incorrect example of a method or construction is depicted in the materials for illustration or discussion, then the fact that it is incorrect must be noted or explained on the slide or specific item or document. The accreditor and Florida Building Commission must be able to understand the context and purpose for inclusion of incorrect information or illustration.

This option allows the provider to indicate that the course has been reviewed and no change is needed. This tool is for use when an advanced course is subject to renewal by a licensing board and the board requires review of said course by the Florida Building Commission. This tool may NOT be used when a new version of the Florida Building Code is adopted and the advanced course does not require any change (i.e. is still current under new code provisions), and the Florida Building Commission requires that the training provider review the course to ensure no change is needed. In this situation, the provider must use the One Change tool to update the code version in the title, summary, and any materials for the course. The training provider must affirm no change is needed for the course.

Contact Us :: 1940 North Monroe Street, Tallahassee FL 32399 Phone: 850-487-1824

TIP: Review the education and training rule language (rule 61G20-6.002 F.A.C.) for specific requirements. It can be found at floridabuilding.org or in the Florida Administrative Code (through www.leg.state.fl.us or www.flrules.org).

TIP: Keep your provider/accreditor contact information current on the BCIS so you will be sure to receive e-mails related to your application.

TIP: Make sure to record and be able to retrieve your BCIS logon and password information. If a password is lost, it will take a minimum of 24 hours for re-issuance.

TIP: Make sure more than one person in your office has your BCIS logon, password, and contact information.

TIP: Your FBC course number will be different from any licensure board course number. Your FBC course number will be three digits plus an extension denoting the version of your course (example: 123.1 is a course that has been revised once).

TIP: For updating or revising a course, if you choose the course category of "self-affirmed, no change," that means that no content in the course has changed. This truly means no change in the course materials. Please carefully review the course and make sure no change is needed.

TIP: For updating or revising a course with one change, select the course category of "self-affirmed, one change" and fully describe the change. This type of revision usually applies when there has been a change in code reference or law or rule citation. This truly means just one change, but it can apply in multiple locations in the course (example: section 12(a) changes to section 12(b) in five places in the course materials).

TIP: Submission of a new or revised course application within one or two days of the course submittal deadline is not likely to be successful because the course must be ACCREDITED (not just submitted) by the course submittal deadline.

TIP: Course deadline submittal dates are published in each of the FBC Education POC agendas and can be found at floridabuilding.org.

TIP: Make sure you save your work in progress.

TIP: If you are asked to make a change by an accreditor, make sure you make the change (such as upload a revised document) before you press the "submit" button.

TIP: If you have any difficulties with the accreditation process or working within the BCIS, please contact the education administrator at mrccconsulting@earthlink.net.

TIP: You should receive an email from the BCIS each time action is taken on your course. If you have questions regarding the status of your course, check your Inbox.

TIP: After your course has been accredited, you will receive an e-mail from the BCIS (that is why it is so important your e-mail address is current). If you do not receive an e-mail, you can check your Inbox. The status should be "pending FBC approval".

TIP: Any course accredited after the deadline will be included on the agenda for review at the next scheduled FBC Education POC meeting.

By checking you affirm that you have read the tips above.

This option allows the provider to make ONE change to an approved accredited course that requires revision to correct or update a reference, table, diagram, or quoted provision of code, law, or administrative rule. The ONE change may be made in multiple places in the course materials. This tool may be used when a new version of the Florida Building Code is adopted and the advanced course does not require any change (i.e. is still current under new code provisions), and the Florida Building Commission requires that the training provider review the course to ensure no change is needed. In this case, the one change is the code version (i.e. 2010 instead of 2007) to update this information in the course title, summary, and any materials for the course. The exact change, the specific location (s) of the change, and reason for the change must be listed in the section asking for this information. The training provider must affirm this is the only change made to the course.'

TIP: If you have any difficulties with the accreditation process or working within the BCIS, please contact the education administrator at mrccconsulting@earthlink.net.

TIP: You should receive an email from the BCIS each time action is taken on your course. If you have questions regarding the status of your course, check your Inbox.

TIP: After your course has been accredited, you will receive an e-mail from the BCIS (that is why it is so important your e-mail address is current). If you do not receive an e-mail, you can check your Inbox. The status should be "pending FBC approval".

TIP: Any course accredited after the deadline will be included on the agenda for review at the next scheduled FBC Education POC meeting.

By checking you affirm that you have read the tips above.

TIP: If no accreditors appear on the list, then you will need to go back and revise your selected subject/trade area selection(s). If you have selected a large number of subject/trade areas, this may reduce the number of available accreditors for review and accreditation.

TIP: Accreditors are approved by the Florida Building Commission. They are usually paid on an hourly basis for their service. This business relationship is strictly between the FBC education provider and the selected accreditor (not with the Florida Building Commission or DBFR) (rule 61G20-8.002 F.A.C.).

TIP: All materials for upload must be in PDF format.

TIP: All materials uploaded will be reviewed by the accreditor, the education administrator, and the Florida Building Commission.

TIP: It is important to ensure that any materials or documents (such as a quiz, test, exercise, or workbook, including answers to any questions or exercises) referenced in your course, syllabus, course application, or any other materials are uploaded and included with your application. Failure to do this may cause a denial or delay of approval (required by rule 61G20-6.002 F.A.C.).

TIP: If an incorrect example of a method or construction is depicted in the materials for illustration or discussion, then the fact that it is incorrect must be noted or explained on the slide or specific item or document. The accreditor and Florida Building Commission must be able to understand the context and purpose for inclusion of incorrect information or illustration.

TIP: The course syllabus should provide summary information about the course. At a minimum, according to rule 61G20-6.002 (4) (a) (b) (c) (d) (e) (h) (i) (j) F.A.C., the syllabus should contain:

1. The course title and number, with the word "Advanced" in the title and "Internet" if appropriate.
2. Number of hours of credit (e.g., 1 hour, 2 hours, etc.)
3. Name, address, telephone number, and email address of the provider
4. Short course description completely describing what the particular course is designed to address
5. Course learning objectives
6. Code edition to which the course relates (can be in the course description)
7. Course references cited in the outline
8. Method of course evaluations

Everything cited in the course syllabus must be found or described in the remaining course materials and description.

TIP: The number of hours in the syllabus must match the number of hours in the course application and other materials.

TIP: The uploaded course materials should include all materials used during the delivery of a course and/or all documents given to the participants to be used during the course. These materials and documents could include all paper handouts (including a PowerPoint presentation), workbooks, diagrams, pictures, photographs, cds, dvds, exams, tests, or parts of code books---everything that a participant will see or use during a course must be uploaded and reviewed by the accreditor. If a course is an online course with voiceover capability, then the script should be made available to the accreditor, if the spoken information is different than what is being viewed by the participant on any particular screen.
